

New Aid for Service Men

Free Information Booths Are Opened at Both Rail Stations

Information booths for the benefit of soldiers and sailors have been established by the Red Cross at the Pennsylvania Station and the Grand Central Terminal. They are open from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m.

Here strangers belonging to the service can get reliable information as to the best places to find lodgings and meals. Books and writing materials also are on hand for the men. The service, which has been particularly useful in straightening out tangles resulting from misunderstanding of the exact intent of new cent-a-mile railroad rate for enlisted men, is supported by voluntary contributions from the station crowds.

Arthur L. Trunk and Mrs. Margaret Burlingame are in charge of the booths.

Plan Negro Labor Union

Socialists and Hebrew Trades Aim to Organize Them

If plans which are being made by the Socialist party, in coöperation with the United Hebrew Trades, materialize, the negro laborers of the country will be organized in a vast labor union. According to an announcement yesterday looking toward this end, by Joseph Schlossber, general secretary of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, who is aiding in the organization work, Charles W. Ervin, Socialist candidate for Governor; Morris Hillquit and Judge Jacob Panken are taking an active interest in the plan.

The task of arousing the interest of the negro workers has been intrusted to the National Association for the Promotion of Labor Unionism Among Negroes. Chandler Owen, well known as a writer, is president of the association; A. Philip Randolph is secretary treasurer.
