

ORGANIZING FOR HENRY GEORGE.

About 40 workmen assembled last evening at Washington Hall, at No. 220 Avenue A, to organize a Labor Party in the Fourteenth Assembly District, and began their meeting by excluding all who were not union men. A long time was spent in effecting even a temporary organization, although it was generally understood that all present were to vote and work for Henry George for Mayor. Later on it was discovered that nearly half of those present were residents of the Sixteenth Assembly District, who had come to see what would be done. William McCabe, the printer, walked in, and was asked by the Sixteenth Assembly District men to organize them. He thereupon told them to step to one side of the hall, and after asking them whether they all intended to support Henry George organized them in five minutes. Patrick O'Farrell, a clock-maker, was elected President, and Thomas Jefferson, Secretary. The Sixteenth District men decided to hold a mass meeting soon and then adjourned, while the Fourteenth District men were still splitting hairs about a temporary organization. Mr. McCabe says that the workmen cannot carry on politics in secret, and he also declares that while he will vote for Henry George he will not pledge himself to support any schemer whom the wirepullers might possibly tie on as a tail to the ticket.
